

2020 Spring Spirit Week

By Hayoung Sally Lee

Going to school in pajama is one of the dreams students have. GVCS has various activities and one of them is Spirit Week. Students who live under strict control of school rules and teachers in various ways are able to express their own sense of fashion and taste.

Tuesday was Pajama Day

Students would wear their pajamas to school. Slippers were allowed and students came to school with their comfiest outfit. Some students decided to buy a cute animal pajama jumpsuit.

Wednesday was "All White Day"

White is the color that represents GVCS Pennsylvania Campus. It shows purity like snow. Students should wear white pants, white tops and as many whites as possible in order to show and represent the school color, and also, to feel the connection with the school.

Thursday was Crazy Hair Day

It's a basic fact that students should have nice and tidy hair when coming to school. But not on this day! Students made their hair as crazy as possible. Some students used a temporary dye to dye their hair like Harley Quinn. Some students did cute braids while others did some horrifying hairstyles as shown below.

Friday was Fashion Terrorist Day

Fashion terrorist is a South Korean slang that people use. When other's fashions are so terrible and make you feel like your eyes are damaged after looking at them, we call them fashion terrorists. So on this day, we were to dress up as crazy as possible. Wearing long socks that cover our pants to the knee line, neck ties that were tied around the wrong places, and so on. People could have fun looking at each other and laugh at how funny they looked. People were scored on how terrible and hilarious they looked.
